Many of the recipes for the foods you enjoy at Merridee's are included in Merridee's Cookbook, available at the shop for 12.95.

Merridee's Breadbasket is a good, wholesome food place located in the delightfully charming atmosphere of Historic Downtown Franklin, Tennessee. Our homemade breads, pies, sweet rolls, soups, salads and sandwiches are prepared daily, using the finest and freshest ingredients available.

It all began in 1880 when Anna Maria Faust, Merridee's grandmother, came to Minnesota from Sweden, bringing her most precious recipes, a sense of tradition and an uncompromising set of values for high quality food. She worked as a cook in St. Paul and was at one time the head cook for the Pillsbury family. Anna Maria always wanted to have a bakery of her own. She enjoyed good conversation, good humor and good coffee, which she brewed all the time. Anna Maria passed on this heritage to her granddaughter, Merridee.

Merridee grew up on the family farm in Winthrop, Minnesota, baking breads, pies and sweets with her mother. Saturday was bread-baking day, and by the age of nine she was doing most of the baking herself. Merridee attended the University of Minnesota where she studied Food Business. While there, she met and married Tom McCray. In 1973, Merridee and Tom moved to Middle Tennessee. Then, in 1981, Merridee began retailing her fresh-baked delights from a little log cabin in Fairview. As word spread, she was asked to open a shop as part of the historic revitalization of downtown Franklin. An old hardware store warehouse on Fourth Avenue, that was once a harness shop, became the home of Merridee's Breadbasket in the spring of 1984.

Merridee McCray passed away in the fall of 1994, leaving a legacy of great food, warm hospitality, and genuine friendship. A tree has been planted in her memory at Five Points in downtown Franklin.

Merridee's Breadbasket continues to be a favorite gathering place for local folks and visitors. We strive to provide our customers with foods that not only taste good, but are good nutritionally as well. All of our products are made from scratch with the best ingredients we can find. We use only unbleached spring wheat flour, real butter, corn oil, and honey as the main sweetener in our white doughs. Our Viking Bread is a four-grain bread containing sesame seeds, sunflower seeds, flaxseed, and wheatberries. It is made without eggs, sugar, or honey and is one of our most popular house recipes.

Thank you for visiting with us and come again real soon!
